Guest Speaker in Journalism

Kyle Lizenby, a 2005 SHS graduate, spoke to Mrs. Jerrell's journalism classes this week as they begin their broadcast news project. A newscast director and videographer for WDRB, Lizenby showed the class videos he has created and explained to them the process they will need for their own videos.

In addition to discussing video angles, shooting different types of scenes, and working with a reporter, Lizenby also showed how to include natural sound into the clips and include sound with still photography. Students also learned how to put a show together and saw examples of a script.

Lizenby and his brother Tyler won an Emmy for best feature story this past year for a story over Michael Cleveland, a Henryville native who is considered the best fiddle player in the world.

Leading the Blind - In Spanish

Students in Spanish III participated in an experiment on giving directions. The objective was for one student to guide a blindfolded student through various parts of the school. Students were expected to give directions only in Spanish - no English was acceptable. The students were also expected to keep each other safe.

Even though some may have bounced off a wall or two, no major bruises resulted and everyone was able to reach the destination using only their Spanish skills.
